DeMolay Mothers Offered Hints
On How to Fill A Hungry Boy

DeMolay mothers enjoyed a rare treat last Thursday when they accepted an invitation from the El Prado Furniture Company to a "Put-Spring-On-Your-Table" party.

Always confronted with the ever-present appetites of growing boys, the guests found Mrs. Harriett Smith, meal-planning authority on hand to give dozens of new "quantity food" ideas—and how to cook them to fill youthful tummies.

Mrs. Smith suggested that DeMolays be taught to cook meals and entertain their friends at home . . . doing all the work themselves. This idea met with approval.

Off of the ranges came hot Dutch potato salad that was then garnished with tinted deviled eggs; out of the broiler came an abundant meal that any teenage boy could cook. First canned baked beans were put in the broiler drip pan. After the grid was re-placed covering them, bacon-wrapped, stuffed, wieners, and meat patties for beefwiches, were arranged on it. All were grilled under a medium gas flame until the bacon had cooked and flavored the beans. To accompany this meal, Mrs. Smith made up a Grandma's tossed salad—a concoction of leafy greens that provide a nice texture contrast for the broiler meal.

Cake was not neglected—and Mrs. Smith showed how a standard two-egg cake recipe could be transformed into a flower garden cake.

Mrs. Smith used new "CP" automatic gas ranges provided by

Chaney's Store
To Change Name
In New Set-up

Chaney's Department Store will be re-named in the near future, due to a change in the ownership-management status of the store, it was revealed this week by John Almond, the new part-owner and manager of the establishment.

Almond, for nearly three years a buyer for the chain of four Chaney stores, said that he had formed a partnership with H. O. Chaney, owner of other stores, and had acquired a part ownership of the Torrance store only. Since the other stores (Gardena, and Hawthorne) belong to the Chaney Corporation it is necessary to change the name of the local store, Almond said. Chaney recently sold his store in Newhall.

Prior to joining Chaney, the new manager was engaged in the wholesale dry goods business for 12 years.

A Navy veteran with 26-months duty aboard an LST as storekeeper in the Pacific, Almond plans to bring his wife, Peggy, and seven-and-a-half year-old daughter, Nancy to live in Torrance. The Almonds presently reside in Manhattan Beach.

Though the name of the store will be changed there will be no change in the policy of the store, Almond said. Chaney will act in an advisory capacity while Almond will handle the actual management and buying for the local store located at 1261 Sartori avenue.

Paul Jacobs, former manager of the local store, has been transferred to Chaney's Hawthorne store.

NEW-MANAGER-OWNER—John Almond, former buyer for the Chaney Department Stores became part owner and manager of the local Sartori avenue store this week.

Salesman Booked
In L.A. Clink on Cookbook Deal

Suggesting to housewives, who were billed in a recent magazine-cookbook deal to notify the police, Chief of Police John Stroh said yesterday that it was believed the salesman on the deal was in custody.

He suggested that housewives who bought magazines from a house-to-house salesman but who never received their promised cook books should contact either the local police or Lt. McMillan of the University Police Station in Los Angeles.

A man identified as L. A. police as William Chayter, 72, is believed to be the man who "worked" the Torrance area and is being held pending further investigation, Stroh said.

Veteran's Center
To Remain Open
Another Year

Recent conferences held between the Management Committee of the Veterans Service Center organization of Los Angeles County and Pat MacDonnell, President of the Torrance Area Veterans Service Center, has resulted in the continuation of the Torrance Center for at least another year.

Due to the shortage of funds in the Community Chest, it was recently reported that it appeared necessary to close the Torrance Center, and several others throughout the county.

Under present arrangements, J. G. Caldwell who has served as Director of the Torrance Center, has tendered his resignation effective April 15th.

Helen K. Dill, who has been Chief Assistant for the past 3½ years, will assume the task of both Director and Counselor.

MacDonnell stated his opinion regarding the change as being the best service obtainable due to curtailment of Community Chest Funds and that while the Center will have to be operated with a reduced staff, the experience and efficiency of Helen K. Dill as chief assistant will insure an uninterrupted continuation of the many services rendered the veteran.

During the month of March, the Veterans Service Center rendered 1331 services involving 832 personal contacts. Their office is located at 1339 Post avenue.
